Date: September 03, 2009
Time: Thursday afternoon (5 pm)

This is another opportunity to come forward individually and connecting in with the other members linked with you, opening to receive the next impulse of energy and information. Be still in your body and mind and allow your consciousness to rise into what you know as your light form, where your point of consciousness can move separately from your body. It is this aspect of you that I call upon and link with and bring you forward to connect into the receiving area of the station of light.

"Welcome and greetings to you dear one, Orem addressing you and I welcome indeed the great number of you now, expanding in your strength in numbers and expanding your awareness of your self and your identification with higher aspects each time you tune in to these transmissions.

In this initial adjustment phase you will feel the energy shifting around you. Allow it to relax you and open you more, being aware that you step into an aspect of yourself that identifies with the point of light of your origin.

Therefore, when you assemble with us you are incorporating all that you know is part of your whole journey of existence. Come now into the great communication chamber.

Rest in here a while as we continue to evolve to increase the abilities you have to be clearly focused on bringing in and re-establishing the higher order of the blueprint for this part of creation, this part for the Earth being. Even as we speak you will be aware that the energy flows through you and you are in a flow of energy because being here and receiving you have allowed the energy to pass back through you into all conditions of the Earth, all conditions affecting you. We continue the transmissions until such time as you have taken that step fully to exist in the realms of higher frequencies and vibrations and no longer need the vehicle of this messenger service to facilitate this for you. We do say there will be the opportunity given at certain intersections within the dimensional adjustments given to you where you will be continually in this higher flow, recognising the new creation around you, and for this to be established within you, we continue these transmissions bringing you forward into light.

These transmissions are here to clear you physically and to physically bring in the greater codes of the structure for you and what you can establish around you. When you expose yourself to these positions you have in you the willingness to unburden yourself of ideas and concepts, of information which does not relate to your personal journey and understanding and you can also identify with the higher point of consciousness that you have evolved to, beyond definition and recognition within the present aspect that you experience. Many of these aspects are concepts to you yet their influence can immediately bring you into a greater field of attention, a greater field of all that you know is necessary for you to participate in and experience in the bringing forward of the potential within you.

What you embarked upon in coming through to this present life activity is with you always and if you feel that you were distracted by relative experiences and ideas that you wished to pursue and you now feel that you need to be more committed to evolving, then these transmissions are bringing you into that position - the awakening time it is often referred to as.

Around you here are the particular areas that you can respond to in terms of what you would wish to see unfold for you and around you and around others, remembering that you indeed are here to receive to completely activate within you all latent codes that have yet to come alive and have yet to experience the unlocking within the dimensional intersections around you. You are in this phase of light energy where you are adapting to the higher frequencies which allow these codes to be activated.

For a time then, your prime focus could be to identify with the point of light which most actively distributes through you the elements that are needed to firstly verify what condition is within you that is out of harmony or synchronisation with your greater purpose here and awakening and your blueprint, and with that process identified, then the further adjustments from the point of light of your origin come forth. So, what is within your blueprint will recognise the adjusting frequencies and in turn your physicality responds to these in the chain of command and the consecutive unfoldment and activities as all become infused with that greater light pattern.

There are segments working within the world around you doing deep research and some of these are realising the assistance being given to them by the amount of light poured forth and held within a level of consciousness that is active as a particular field, a grid, that can be sensed, that can be drawn upon and so these who are calling out for an expansion of knowledge and new ways to achieve greater direction in evolution and
