Time: Thursday evening 8 pm

We gather together again from many parts of this beautiful planet, many different people and many different light beings accompanying you. Feel that we are being drawn together in a place not physically on Earth yet we know it is part of us, part of our civilisation and part of our existence and many times we have walked a pathway where we have been drawn together with many people for a specific purpose and this is the feeling I have as I gather you all together at this time and bring you forward into the meeting place, into the entrance and gathering place of the vessel of light. I see so many coming in that it takes a while for us to present ourselves and to be comfortable in this space.

“Orem greeting you here beloved and we assist the process of drawing you in and filtering from you the unnecessary bits that you would bring with you from Earth, from your experiences and what you would hold onto. To be here you need to be fully open where you trust the higher aspect of your self which allows you to come forward and which draws you forward into this space to be with us.

Always there is the agreement takes place in many layers of your being and throughout many existences of your being. As you focus in this particular entity as you are, we open the portal to draw you in to the greater communication space.

Have you reached within yourself to understand fully what you experience and what you bring forward. Have you recognised the symbols that come to you when you hold a question in your mind to confirm what it is that you need to hear or experience. There are many messages come to you in such way. These exhibit the drawing together of patterns throughout you, both in symbols and in thoughts. It is the vibration coming together that you draw yourself into and which is attracted to you by what you put out. So, you would understand that as you seek always the highest, purest, pathway of light and understanding, this is what you are drawn into.

So, we announce to you that you are coming into a space where you are free to move into an expanded realisation of the universe, into the different dimensions as they are presented to you and also to see the pattern around Earth that is shifting and to allow your knowledge to bring into place the presence of the higher civilisations of existence which stabilise much of the energy which passes through Earth in the way that Earth is evolving through different unfolding areas of the universe.

There is much to present to you and this comes fully into you as you expand and open and allow greater energy to fill you.

We speak again of the way that you are receiving the information. It is the words which hold your attention and it is the energy within the words and between the words which adjusts your energetic field and which you feel that you know. You know exactly what is going to be presented to you. You may hear the words as an echo for what you inwardly receive and all during that process you are moving.

This gathering space is not stationary. It moves in response to the flows of energy and increases its movement as you absorb the higher energy.

Sometimes it is spoken of your potential and so when you embrace that concept you have automatically moved into a state where you feel you are achieving a great deal, more perhaps than you think you have learned, or perhaps you think you haven't deserved to be experiencing specific change or a specific role that you might be enacting. There are no limits when you open to take on all the energy of your blueprint from your point of creation.

Surrounding you each here in your energetic field is a higher frequency band you would say that surrounds you and your perceptions are interpreting this. It works in a manner in passing encoded information into you and you process this and if you could view yourself from an energy perspective, you would see that you emanate certain waves changing in how they are perceived and you receive more and there is a continual flow throughout you and the flows in ignite specific areas within you, connections you might say, and so pathways are open and there is a change in the activity even in your light bodies, but more specifically in the physical aspects of you. You are being adapted to be able to exist in the higher frequencies that are occurring throughout the Earth. It is the nature of all matter to change in response to a specific frequency that will be encompassing it always and with the restoration of the greater order as it was envisaged the Earth would hold and become, then you are responding to the change in the codes that is being resettled within you.

You might say that if you had experienced existence that did not see the sun for many cycles and then there was a shift and the rays were able to come through, you would need to adapt to them gradually until you were fully exposed again.
