Issue 507

Date: November 26, 2009

Time: Thursday afternoon 2.30 pm

Come and join me on another inner journey as we set forth in our light forms, in that part of our consciousness, to establish again the link with the vessels of light and with the great messenger known as Orem.

Come with me into the receiving area.

Come with me in this space of light and allow yourself to feel drawn into this space of light directly in your own consciousness state, and be aware of the changes around you. For myself I feel a straightening out and a focus ahead of me when I come into this space and I feel very comfortable in the greater energy. We wait now.

“Greetings and welcome. Orem speaking to you. I open this portal for all of you to come with us.

You will remember these words and this welcome and you will hear them in a greater state, in a more physical state as you come together in the intersection framework which draws you more as a physical unit into this space.

Essentially, you are this enhanced being of light. Even now you are feeling that your earth life is changing.

Some of you will have been feeling that much around you depends on what you are achieving and what you can visualise and bring into your life, and also you will be feeling that you have a responsibility beyond much of what you recognise in your physical capacity.

As you recognise this, you will feel an expansion into that great knowledge that you have and the identity of you which begins another pattern of life in this stage.

You have been communicated with and the ideal position for you has also been contained with the communications that you have been feeling coming forward to you. Keep listening and keep being aware of the inner messages and the outer signs which indicate to you that there is a specific focus for you to come into. What we do here in these messages is to remind you what that is and to reinforce the message given to you specifically. Also, we help you to recognise the inner planes of working here and the inner states which do bring you into the atmosphere and the living space which is prepared and which is still being expanded upon for you all.

You may feel you are moving through time as we address you with the energy waves here, and this is correct. We are bringing you into a state which allows the change and the freeing up of you and this also brings you to understand that you are being asked to release your self from time, to follow that flowingness within you and always this exists within you, where if you could identify with that stream of impulse, it would move you directly.

There are new directions for you to face and to move into and your responsibility in regard to this is to acknowledge the feelings you have. Some of these come about as a desire to meet with certain people. You are learning to adjust what you are hearing and feeling, and in turn, the meetings will take place.

For some of you these meetings will be on a greater dimensional frequency such as this which we bring you into, and for others of you it will be meeting physical people. This cannot be defined specifically at this time to you.

You are all feeling disturbances in the energy flows around you in your life, where nothing would be remaining stable and feeling the same. Indeed, what is around you is changing and at the same time you would feel that support beneath you and around you. As you come more in tune with this, you will be identifying what these energy streams and focuses are indicating.

We continue to support you in the messages with the right energy for you and this process is ongoing adjustment for you. The regular transmissions come forth to assist you to maintain your focus within the unfolding streams of energy. Even as you continue your focus of identifying with your point of origin, your source of creation, there is the outpouring to you which you are needing to adapt to. These at times are very strong to you in a visualisation sense, would you agree, and the visualisations are important for they are recognition patterns for you, and when you recognise something and when you realise the patterns, there is a change takes place, there is agreement and acknowledgement. When you do acknowledge what you see and understand it, then you are open to receive a greater depth.

You are working continuously in the field of change and the network of consciousness. Expanding this more around you, you will be seeing individual life forms that you recognise around your planet as being perhaps special in some way to you. Animals, creatures, different life forms indeed, many of which seem to speak to you, and in your dreams you may feel you are companions. Recognise that the life forms also receive these impulses and some are there particularly to assist you on parts of your journey and others are there for you to assist them, to
