Issue 509
Date: December 10, 2009
Time: Thursday afternoon 3 pm

I link with you so that we may come together as a group, for the group energy is very powerful, and we step forward in the powerful light that you are, consciously aware of all aspects of you, consciously aware that you made the choice to remember the greatness that you are and to reconnect into the greater levels of consciousness coming forward as the Great White Brotherhood. We move into this particular space that I bring you into, into the receiving area where we can be addressed by members of the Brotherhood working within this universal Command grouping.

Be in your light form, be eager to receive and thus you will draw to you everything that you need to hear at this time.

“Orem greeting you here Beloved all together in a group and as I speak the words go out for you to feel the drawing in, in this process, for you to feel that you are alert - in command of your own beingness - and open to receive the greater linkages necessary at this time in your connections.

We bring you into the communication chamber, for you to be stable in here and to adjust to what is being given to you even through the words that I speak in this moment. You are receiving an intensity of vibration and this is what you may call a technique for you to expand on all levels and for those receptive parts of you to receive the vital energy information which goes beyond the words.

You will be aware that you have expanded from how you first connected into this space. You will also be aware that you have been adjusted to a condition of life, one that has allowed you to accept your living space in the Earth dimension and as well as that, to be lifted into the aware state of receiving the messages, receiving the impulses on a continual basis.

You will have found that in many times since our previous linkup you have been in a position where you have been speaking out and you feel you have been able to direct people, giving them a few points, a few comments and in particular, energy, which allows them to accumulate and assimilate what they need to hear for their particular life pattern. This will also have been the same for you at this time.

In this space, in this message, you are receiving several bits of information which allow you to process what has been occurring on an internal level for you. This is part of the process where we deliver unto you the information to untangle what has been within you, releasing that to a different consciousness state, allowing you to bring more of the full focus of who you are into the present.

This is where you are making the great change. Connected into that is the higher space of livingness required of you.

All these processes take place in your dream-time, in your present thought patterns of what you consider to be done, what you may like to be done, what you may like to achieve and carry forth. Breathe all this into you, as it were, in the process as you take in the essence to revitalise all the inspirational aspects you have been receiving and allowing the greater universe to prepare you for the next phase, the next breath out, and the process of taking in, assimilating, absorbing in every way to create the next step for you, continues.

Feel about you the alignment process here. Feel how this fills you. Feel how this lifts you up into another space. You are moving between dimensional structures. In this way you have upon you the presence of your highest aspect which is communicating in this very moment with a group of beings collecting you into a more active aware state. As we lift you up into this, you may sense being outworked on the physical plane more change. In many ways people have become disinterested in the physical plane because of the great amount of information available to you and this resides in aspects of your consciousness directly encompassing all the fields of the many cellular processes, and as the information comes into you, the process of transforming you with the information requires energy. When we link with you in such cases as these transmissions that you read and listen to, that process occurs. Because you are attuning to us in the higher frequency, you are being changed more rapidly around you. The cells are able to reflect the information and in many cases clear the energy pathways, merely by what is being transmuted out of you and into a higher state of working. You see, each process has an expanded field and that is responding to what is coming to you from a different level of the present existence of Earth.

So, all of this means that you are being prepared and changed, so the state of mind that you have - the attitude you might say - is to receive this adjustment which occurs even external to your own processes of desire and activity. So, when you feel that you are disinterested in what is going on around you it is because your attention and focus on some levels of your being is working on achieving this greater adjustment. For a while then, as you receive these transmissions you are taking time out from the activity of your daily life stream and into this level you can rest and place your focus into the direct information through your point of origin. Rest in this for this time.

When it is appropriate you will be moved and you will take the actions and you will have the energy to take those actions. This process in this transmission is strengthening the activity of the communication throughout your form and throughout your mind-body form. Then you may find and feel that you are experiencing the greater universe - suspended in it as it were - observing the enormity of it and encompassing that in every way within your processes, within what you would feel as your form.

When we can bring you to this state of consciousness we can see you entirely lightened up by the energy process and the flows, and then we can see that you are absorbing correctly. What takes place following your absorption of this into the physical plane, shifts you and allows the Earth to be shifted forward.. This is a continuation of the previous transmissions, entirely encompassing all the light energy of those transmissions. This is indeed a time of fulness for you.

We bring your attention back to the communication chamber here, where the energy surrounds you in visible form in its waves, where you can step into the crystalline energy here, and you adjust to that frequency.

It also acts as a process to break the pattern from you of the denseness of the energy field of Earth, as it does so it allows you to more deeply comprehend the area of existence you have experienced here in this transmission.

What is upon you here is complete for this time, so I bring you all back with me to the entranceway of this light space. We will proceed to allow the next deliverance to be formed, ready for you.

With this I encompass you in love and I honour that place that you have come to within your self.

Orem out."

Thank you Orem.

Lani speaking now. As I reconnect with you on this level, I am aware that what we were given this day was well beyond words and yet you will be taking it in as if you saw the transmission, in that part of you that exists behind your eyes - the part of you that resonates with the crystalline energy of the universe in its flowingness. And this has been gifted to you at this time. Allow it to work throughout you and to be as a focus to draw you forward always in the outpouring from your own point of origin.

I bring you back now to reconnect with your physical element, blessing it with this energy and information at this time.

Thank you for receiving this.

I close the portal at this time from the Omega Communications.
