Issue 511
Date: December 31, 2009
Time: Thursday evening 11.30 pm

Greetings to you on this New Year's Eve, the eve before we enter our calendar year of 2010. I bring to you this special edition, issue 511 of the Omega Communications transmissions.

I sit quietly to link with you all in your own time zone around our beautiful planet. Here in Auckland the moon is large and bright, a beautiful still night. I link with you to bring you forth to the Command Station where we gather, waiting respectfully.

"Greetings here to you Dear One. This is Orem addressing you and I speak to you as an individual, all of you as individuals, but you will know that I am addressing you because you will feel you are walking a particularly strong pathway, seen as very clear and powerful to you at this time, above and beyond many of the experiences you have walked through in the previous yearly cycle. You may feel yourself confident and clear and this has been a way for you to achieve that during the energy transmissions you have received and taken willingly into you.

This is another step to help you take that further commitment and step on your pathway at this time.

If you have never received any of these transmissions until this particular issuance, then be assured that you are loved and you are recognised as your unique self in this universe and if you have come this pathway to join in with the energy, this has been a very significant moment for you. Realise that you have been gathered into a particular space where you can recollect many of the pathways you have travelled, many of the uplifting aspects in creation you have experienced, and also at this time it is particularly relevant for you to focus your attention toward the happenings in the greater universe around planet Earth.

You are never alone in your own experiences and what you may be thinking is going to happen, and perhaps you would wish to know what is going to happen, is not the correct thinking pattern for you.

You are creating many of the expressions in your life pattern, so if you are focusing on harmony, this is what you will be receiving. If you are focusing on joy and each day living it in a positive, strong, healthy way, this is what you will do. The power of creation is very powerful within you. As you move in recognition that the greater aspect of yourself brings you to desire the correct pathway, then you have already moved into achieving that. The focus is on this for this moment as you recognise the changing in the numbers and the cycles around you.

We also can gather you at this space, bringing you into the greater communication chamber, but recognise here the energy has shifted and this is a vast open area that is a connecting point between various elements of creation. You might say various planets, you might say different races.

All become one of a great complex dimensional existence when you open to what is here around you that is present to you in a way that you will recognise and accept.

We speak about this expansion in the communication chamber. We speak also about the energy that is upon you and within you. You may have many expectations and expectations can be very positive and help you to attune to the next phase in your own life pattern. If you expect to be fully connected to the greater aspect of your self and if you expect to be cleared of past conditions, of conditions that are not supportive of your world, then make your expectation a reality that you feel very strongly has come into being for you.

You are a creator, which is why there has always been emphasis on drawing you into the correct pattern of thought for your creation and connecting you to the Source of Creation, to the blueprint that exists within every living element, every living space around you.

In this moment, in this transmission, we draw you to be within the recognition of the connections throughout the universe. These should be appearing to you in such a way that you would sense the uprising into order. If you felt you were sitting in a slumped forward position, you may now feel you are being drawn up to sit erect but perfectly balanced, all parts of your spine properly positioned for the strength and support of the other elements of your body.

Now when you apply that same aspect of thinking to the Earth planet you will see that when that comes into alignment and order there is strength and a greater light radiating into other parts of the universe.

This is your life now, being attuned to the greater universe and patterns of creation.
