I open the portal to draw you into this space to continue the transference of greater energy to you, energy which does contain information. We request you to step into your light form, coming forward in that different aspect of you, moving freely into these different dimensional spaces. I gather you and link us all together as one group coming into the receiving area of the vessel of light.

“It is in this space that we await you Beloved and we greet you and we draw you into this assembly point.

We would have you acknowledge that around you is a particular space that you can recognise and feel very welcomed in. This is the initial receiving and gathering space which you will be drawn into at a specific time experience for you when it is upon you to be delivered here where it will take place. Some of you may feel you are in a dream state and others will be fully conscious and will be actively gathering in other groups of people into this space. It is necessary to remind you of this in this particular transmission to you.

You will be seen to be amongst other people gathered here who will acknowledge you as being a representative of them and of being in a position to assist them to understand where they are being placed and why this is happening to them.

Many people already are experiencing changes in time and the sensation that while they have been in a specific earthly place, they felt they have been somewhere else. There has been a step up in the intensity of these experiences for you and in many cases, a welcome change of position, a place of learning for many people to come to, but the learning is merely the exchange of information so that you are prepared for what is occurring around your planet.

The freedom you are experiencing in these terms of moving between dimensions is occurring because of the change in the vibration that holds you into a specific state of consciousness known as your earth 3D consciousness. So, with this information given to you now, accept that you have been shaken from your roots. You are being released into the experience of an expanded universal stream of information.

Now, we take you further into the proper communication chamber and this is done after the initial greeting to you because there are other ones with you, those physically with you, but those existing with you not in the same physical form and capacity as you have but linked with you for these particular purposes of evolvment together. Many are linked with you in that sense, some of whom you would call your own guides and teachers and others you would say family and loved people connected to you. The information is just as necessary to them as it is to you.

In this communication chamber now you are positioned in a specific channel of light given to you. Take these moments for this to settle around you.

Draw upon it, as we know you do in many cases, for adjustment in your physical self and in your emotional state. This serves a great purpose for you, being exposed to this stream and beam of energy and vitality. You may feel in the days preceding a new energy transmission you feel unbalanced. This is because part of your energy system recognises there is a new flow of energy coming to you and you will be hearing what it is and you will be touched by the vibration and so it eagerly adjusts itself in preparation - like leaving one meals, perhaps, ready to accept another higher vibration level of food, a more powerful level to sustain you in these times.

There is a direct passage of energy beamed at planet Earth at this time and it is bringing forth the vibration known to you from, you might say a satellite station or you might say another group of interplanetary beings coming forward to meet you and greet you. These types of messages have been presented to you many times and we understand that there were specific co-ordinates given and specific time frames for you to be addressed by beings from other planetary systems. What occurred was an introduction to different authorities represented on your planet and in various aware states, various beings, but the information did not come through on a wide scale. Indeed, what has happened instead is this greater drawing forth and upliftment and preparation in other states of your awareness and consciousness which are very much part of you, and in various civilisations you were aware of these communications. Here you have forgotten, despite many reminders to you through different media sources used so widely in these days and through the energies of the planet and the other creatures who gather you up and try to tell you there is change coming and to be ready for the change, to keep yourself aligned with the flows of energy coming upon you, recognising that this is a major source of your own systems of vitality, patterns necessary to maintain your cells and your body, your level of happiness.
