If you are well and strong, then I am with you.

If you have been experiencing doubt, then I am with you.

If you have been feeling the change around you in the world and around you in your life, upcoming - then I am with you.

We all experience all these experiences and events. We all know them.

Now, today, I link with you once more to come and ask for balance and order and I link with you to bring you with me into the receiving area of the vessel of light in our connections as we wait and attune ourselves to the higher frequency that comes to us.

"I greet you here this day Beloved. Orem with you. Indeed the attunement process is necessary and important. You have been experiencing the change - what we call flux, as there is the movement almost as if it is a tidal movement and in between there appears to be nothingness, and you wait for the next big movement.

We have identified many processes within you each as we have listened to comments and have acknowledged your calls when you have sought linkage with us in between transmissions. We know what it is that you require to maintain a sensibility about you of order and perhaps of happiness and joy, as we have been expressing to you.

There are many parts of you who have received on different levels the messages within the energy streams that have come about you. So, parts of you can identify with the higher planes and other parts of you are still feeling that you are walking heavily anchored to the earth construct.

Welcome this space where you can readily disengage from the earth construct and be free to identify with the higher aspects of your self as you exist in this state of consciousness already with us and with the expression of wholeness. You hear us. You receive us and thus we gather you up to come forward to be within the communication chamber itself.

There are echoes in here of many experiences that you might identify as earlier civilisations which were more advanced spiritually than you may recognise in your present circumstances. If you acknowledge those experiences, you must also acknowledge that they maintain their presence within consciousness and you are conscious of that presence. Therefore, in your identification process you must indeed include those aspects of materialised, manifested, expressions of creation.

Many times you hear messages and part of you says, well that would be great if it was happening now, that would be great if it was possible. Do you see in saying such phrases and thinking them, you have already stopped yourself from becoming what has been presented to you.

In this moment here be the greatest that you are. Feel that you have within you the joyful power of creation. Feel that all circumstances around you can be changed to be aligned to the higher order. Many experiences exist alongside you and this is why we would assist you to identify with your intention and focus into the state where you can assist the entire evolving Earth plane. All of your brothers and sisters, whether they be in human form or other form, you can assist them to be in a place where all is open to receive at this point what we talk about as enlivenment.

You see, you have gone beyond that state of being cleansed and have now come to be enriched and enlivened with the procedures activated within all of the consciousness surrounding the cells, preparing you to be restored to a level of existence where you are one with harmonised worlds of experience.

What happens with the realisation of this is you are moved. Did you sense that? We see the response in that aspect of you assembled here with us. We saw the expansion, because in some way, all that you are in your physicality and mental processes come forth into this communication area and so the aspect of you in your light self that is identifying with the fulfilled aspects, continues to experience what the earth body is experiencing. Come forward another step so that the process of the connected aspects of your self in the wholeness can infuse that and impart that knowledge and energy information through all your layers into the physicality.

You may feel that you have expanded and part of you is engulfed in this energy that comes, expressing a chord, a sound, a vibration. As this connects into you, there is another part of the universe exposed to you in your awareness here."
