Beginning this session I open the portal and link with you all. Wherever you are in the world, they say, they know where you are, they will find you. Wherever you are in the world you connect directly into the areas of your greater consciousness and where you focus within that. I bring you, therefore, into that link and connection, to be aware of the greater element that you are and how you have become more important in your own life pattern for those around you. More importantly, you have become greater than you have ever been in this life pattern. So, with that, I draw you together to come with us into the receiving area of the vessel of light.

"In this space I come and welcome you, Orem greeting you here. In particular I would draw you forward in a manner that you are brought to attention and you would be reflecting that in your own aspect - what you would recognise yourself to be. For a moment here as you link in with all the creative aspects here and all the beings who have been drawn into this flow of energy and who have been looking for answers and looking for upliftment, we welcome all those.

This is an adjustment space where your energies recognise what is around you so that you become comfortable with the rapid shift out of your physical body unit into this space. As you settle into this space we now draw you into the communication chamber.

This opens to welcome you and you may visualise what is presented to you here. This is so that the focus of the energy systems will work directly through you. There are codes that you are receiving in this energy flow which turn on certain brief messages within you. You have the power here to recognise what these are and in many cases you may feel you have come to a point of realisation which is shocking to you because it is huge in your sense of what you understand your life to be.

The realisation here given to you is that you are living already a different life pattern and many of you understand this, for you sense in many ways the individual daily experiences have a different quality about them now because you are consistently exposed to a higher level of vibration as you connect in with these levels of consciousness here, and you are working, many of you specifically to assist the process of those who have become damaged in some way, emotionally or physically, in regard to their human aspect and so you are being with these beings on Earth - the you that is this higher consciousness level and a vibration that is different to your physical self.

So, those beings on Earth who are aware of your presence will see you as if you are a being of light. They may say "I had an Angel help me", because the term Angel signifies in your language a being of light, a being who supports and uplifts and helps in many ways. This is what we mean. This is a big realisation for you to have as a human being, that you are also this elemental being of a greater power energy source for all those around you.

To continue this you need to keep your focus clearly identifying with the greater mass of energy systems drawn about you as the energy matrix. This in turn strengthens you and gives you the creative impulses and direction. So if you are beginning to perceive, surrounding the Earth plane is a band or a field of vibration that you could see as a colour and this is what you aim for, to connect with this and bring it in through you and into the greater network and grid around and throughout the planetary system. This is therefore received and amplified and held by many of the creatures - other life forms to human - who are very aware of the energy systems. There have been historical events of change held within the consciousness of many creatures and in the sense of the human mind field there is a line of information that still exists within you all, within a pattern that is contained within you.

When you absorb the energy systems in these transmissions, then some of this resurfaces to your memory and it brings up within you also that you can stand, strongly connected to a higher source, and balance what is occurring around the Earth plane. You can bring through a field of purification. You can bring through an energy field that repairs the structure in the energy systems that may become displaced or fractured or disturbed in any way, and when you experience these transmissions and we bring you these examples and experiences, you are already using those. You are being assisted to remember your training and the application of these energy systems. Therefore, occurring within you now within aspects of your conscious mind knowing systems, you may be feeling this shifting and change going on through you and around you.

When you recognise there is an energy pattern of value coming forward, you increase the powerful energy field in that recognition and acknowledgement.
