Issue 527
Date: May 13, 2010
Time: Thursday afternoon 3 pm.

I welcome you again to these gatherings. I welcome all aspects of you. I welcome that aspect that knows that you consciously serve in some way in this universe and I welcome that aspect of you that might be coming just to receive the energy charge and upliftment. Come with me as we move into the receiving area of the vessel of light.

"Greetings this day to you, Orem speaking to you and I am amongst you and I see a great shifting and changing in you, as you look around you and observe different positions that you would wish to be in and different groups that you would be aligning yourself to, almost like being coded into similar colours of what you wear, colours that you might have in your energy field that signify your intention and signify the aspect in which you work. We see you all as an overall group and would mostly say to you indeed that as this place expands, as you would wish it to be, and as is offered to you, you will sense that you move into new areas.

All this occurs in this receiving area.

We also transport you into the main communication chamber where different elevations and aspects are present, and so you will have the sense of observing different areas and you will also be recognising that you are drawn into a specific placement at this time. You will hear the particular messages that you will need to hear at this time, and so we open the greater portal immediately around you that allows you to connect to the information stream coming through the matrix encompassing you all and serving the process that you are going through as part of the earth changes."

"In a continuation of this, we come forth encompassing you in the light that we bring through from the matrix and as such you identify us as Star Elders. This naming will change as you observe us to a greater degree and take in the energy change. For now this serves this great purpose to enable you to come through this portal and to identify places within the Earth that have been fully awakened and moved into the next dimensional reality.

There are technicalities applicable to that particular aspect and these you will feel changing you. Some of you will distinctly know the linkages you have, because you work in such a way that you have realised the energy that is available to you to channel through you in different ways to assist the process for yourself and for different groupings of people within the earth station present.

We would wish to tell you that in your dream state you are seeing reflections and ideas of the reality of this dimensional unfoldment. You will be seeing that you are working. You will be seeing that you are with different types of beings. This again is how you are working, and you will see this outworked in your physical plane reality.

We have many groups of people speaking, in a very deliberate fashion, introducing areas of population to the greater concept that they have now the ability to connect into this level of existence, when they are sufficiently focused into serving the greatness of the universe. Until such time as this is apparent in every being, the linkage into this state is not available. If you want to take part consciously within this great uplifting network, then your intention and focus must be to enable that pureness of intention to be what enlivens you and draws you through your process of life and practices in life.

There is much that you can do when you are so connected to this energy frequency. Being exposed to this in this way when we draw you into the energy gives you the experience of it and that memory and process of receiving the energy remains with you in consciousness. You are given these experiences to assist the process to occur for you.

Open and trust to receive the fulness of the energy.

Within this, being activated within you is the particular unfoldment of the chains and linkages that your intelligence receives, thereby allowing you to change with this from your emotions and thoughts to the very physicality of the processes within you.

The defined linkages unfold as if they are an evolvment in one cell. From the unfoldment in each cell the message is passed, communicated, to every other intelligence and activated componentry within you.

What you are receiving will intensify the sensations some of you have been having of being in particular places beyond your planet. Absorbing the energy also through this transmission will allow the working of you in these dimensions to become more real and significant in your life.

We enfold you in the energy of this in this transmission, a particular band. You might relate this to the bandwidth that you are familiar with in your technology of this day and you may understand this and see it as a vision that encompasses you. This will remain with you as you continue to draw upon it.

With this information and energy now we bring you back to Orem to continue this transmission."

"Orem speaking to you now, and as that portal closes, be aware that you are being assisted to come back around me. This particular part of the transmission always is present with you to assist you to realise that you went beyond even this space here. There are multi dimensional existences around you, present with you, wherever you are. These are you might say within your heart, within your energy systems, present.

As this reawakens within you the memory and the existence coming in from around you from the present and from other realities, you are given the reminder to maintain your inner strength and balance, for through that balanced presentation of you in the world, you are able to bring through all this information to everyone you see.

The likelihood of the patterning of this transforming you is very great, and we say this for this question has arisen in the minds of many people. Because you experience this, you know it will be and the passion that you have that drives you to continue your inner linkings ensures that you follow through with the information contained within the energy.

This transmission is complete at this time and I return you to the receiving area. This is an easier place for you to transition from the greater aspects you have been dwelling in, in the transmission, to your physical plane.

You are within that band of energy frequency of the greater matrix. I uphold you within this light. energy and information.

Thank you.

Orem out"

Thank you Orem and the Star Elders. This is Lani again as I gather you back from that great space. You will be strengthened because you have received this and you have been told that this band of the living energy matrix is around you in your energy field. Allow this to come up as a vision or a feeling, and sensing, within you and bring it consciously back now into your form and into your thoughts, and you merge completely back now within your body.

Be firmly grounded as I close the portal of the Omega Communications at this time.

The energy has been great, so make sure that your head space is clear and centred and you are balanced.

Thank you.

Lani
