Issue 532

Date: June 17, 2010

Time: Thursday evening 8 pm

To begin this session I come to you each and welcome you and I celebrate you and I bring you forward as if we are crossing a bridge to an open portal and it is here that we can easily be gathered together and received into a space of light. So, be prepared in your own self, in your own commitment to be that entity that can move into spaces of light and if it is necessary you can bring your physical form, but in these transmissions it is just simply to allow you to travel in your consciousness, which creates a body of light vehicle, into these spaces. This is where we begin the transmission this time as we wait to be greeted here. Feel amongst you the many others who have come forward linking in at this time through these transmissions. At the same time you will be aware that there are many holding stations around the Earth in different countries, in different spaces, some within the earth and some such as we who move to a space that is separated from the Earth crust itself, yet we are all connected in one purpose.

"At this time, in this space and out of your actual measurement of time I come forward and greet you. Orem speaking to you and indeed I celebrate you, as has been perceived in your introduction. I celebrate what you have understood and what you have visualised and realised in your life pattern.

There has been initiated within you a more keener sense of perception and in that way you are able to understand many people who have experienced a sense of loss and that loss relates to a sense of release of an egocentric viewpoint of their self where they had always thought they were such a specific strong individual excelling in their field, they - many, that is - have come to realise that they have had a shift of perspective about who they are and what they will be doing in the future. Some will have seen that it is an even greater aspect of living experience that they have become and others have had such a turnaround in belief systems that they are still dealing with the shock of understanding what has been presented to them. We are speaking in here the view of the teachings and information that has been passed to people in a relevant fashion for them. Some have had what you would call a wake up call through writings and through visionary experiences of some sort, either in dreams or what they have witnessed. So you see, the people of Earth are on a point of change, that they have not thought possible and much information is going to be presented to you all.

When you can tune into the information coming through the portals directly yourself, you will also send forth assistance to those ones who are resisting the change presented to them. So, you have stepped through this portal already. You have crossed the bridge that gives you new understanding and what you become now does necessitate you opening further and trusting and in this space we can accelerate the process. Instead of going through a long learning process and understanding many computations given to you, what you are doing is going through the experience, and the experience gained through this process of immersion in the energy frameworks around you also allows the consciousness surrounding every cell to vibrate to that newer understanding and frequency which contains the information. The information is presented in patterns so that there will be a sequence activated within you and this then presents itself to you in the world around you in opportunities, in various allowances and things you are given to nurture or to hold or to develop. It all happens as a result of you presenting yourself through these portals into the more pure alignment of energy.

As this is presented to you, you will begin to feel the change around you. We say again, as we have said before, you may feel change in temperature, you may feel pressure upon you, you may become aware of sounds. All of your senses, you see, become attuned to a different level when you are focused into these elements of creation presented to you in these transmissions. This is to confirm to you that you have risen. If you related this to steps you would know that you have gone up steps to another level and you view things differently from this level.

Many more beings have come forth amongst you as I have been speaking to you and now the greater communication chamber opens up around you. You will feel that you are being shifted again in this space that we move you, completely shielded from all that is around you and in this state you will feel the communion with each being around you in a supporting, loving atmosphere. This is the way it is as you will be existing in this next layer of dimensional existence for you. This you will be able to maintain around you in your energy field. Many times in your daily activities you may feel you move amongst people where you do not want to be, where you feel harshness and roughness, so what is given to you here is to strengthen your entire energy field, acting as a buffer against those particular vibrations that you feel disturb you. It is necessary for you to continue the process that you go through on Earth for an interval of time only until you have achieved a certain connectedness throughout different concepts you have and you move into a space where a greater unfoldment is revealed of the corrected pattern that is brought to you for you to bring into the Earth pattern in a way that as all are turned together you will feel this coming together, as you do in this space. You will feel when you are correctly attuned to this aspect of creation that we are representing to you here. You know when something is sitting just in the right position amongst you physically. You feel the harmony and as your perceptions rise where you see within the physical construct, you see the pattern unfolding around you, levelling many disturbances and moving out in a rippling effect so that the harmony you feel is radiating out around you in many time-space aspects.

Part of what we are giving to you in this transmission also draws you into a new position as it will be, connected into a different aspect of universes. There is continuing the linkages that will draw the Earth station forward within a great aspect that will nurture more of what is evolving on planet Earth and this living consciousness will then come forth in a different way, supporting a new type of life. You will be ready for this. You have taken the necessary steps to allow the training of all of you to occur and this is the entraining you to match the frequency to that which is drawing you forth. You will have realised that this is like going through a learning space of many years. Schooling in a different way, indeed. And you will have felt that phase has been nearly completed, and when you know that something is coming to completion and you have nearly finished that phase, you already are moving into the next. That may seem unclear at this time from where you view it, but there is that aspect of you that is already there, assisting you, drawing you forward into it. So, you will know you are operating in connection with a greater evolvement and an inter linking occurring, carrying you forward also.

We understand that some of the words spoken to you will seem confusing and you would wish for greater clarification. You are in fact receiving that, for you do know and this experience will direct you individually to be given confirmation in the way that you expect it to be. There are many layers and levels that are brought to you in these transmissions and in many others and if you wish to define some of these elements you can pursue those but remember that you are going on an ever increasing pathway of evolvement and as you understand that there are certain signposts, then if you spend time looking at that signpost you will have missed the next step of the journey because that is moving and you are going through that. So in trusting the process that you are engaged within, you become more cognisant of the greater universal collectiveness as presented through the energy matrix around you. That energy matrix holds specific energy centres known to you as galaxies, but because there is wholeness involved here, it is more than just one particular named position and you are not expected to know all the names of the places that you connect with yourself as part of this universal matrix linkup. You are working outside the time frame where, as a specially entrained group of beings you are drawing many other people through and around different, you might say planetary stations, into streams of information and light that change all of those particular planetary entities.

This is a part of an ongoing continuity in consciousness and what was seeded within you in the beginning draws you forward at a faster pace. This was before you became human elements in the present existence that you recognise around you on Earth.

Coming back to your presence here in the communication chamber and the steps around you now, these necessitate you being activated fully to receive all the specific codes from the matrix connected into you and for these to be carried right through you to the energy centre beneath your feet, connecting you to the channels within the earth. You are bringing through all that is in accordance with the upliftment programme. Bringing the energy in back around you now will be sufficient to support you in your days ahead of you as you become involved again with the people around you.

Remember the loving support that you receive and which you can freely give to others.

I bring you back now to the entranceway.

You have viewed a different journey in consciousness in this transmission and we must make sure that you become refocused again to all the elements of your physicality. You connected in many stations with aspects of your own beingness. As you are now, you are the central focus in your life pattern for this. As we conclude this transmission we do say to you that if you feel you are still anchored to Earth, then look at your attachments to people and see if you have completely released all emotional attachments related to people that are anchored within constricting emotions. You will know that all emotions based on true love allow freedom and upliftment, and that is your baseline to consider.

I leave you with this information at this time. You are totally supported in universal love.

Orem out "

Lani speaking to you again here. All of you that I recognise here come back to your own space on Earth. Feel the wonderful excitement that you know where you are going, that you know there is specific information that has been passed to you in a way that will unfold itself to you, so take the time to be still within you and connect to the greater energy of this Universal Matrix that has connected you in to the portal of upliftment. Most of all this will be giving you a sense of freedom and happiness. I give my thanks to Orem for this journey and all the influences connected to that. I close the Omega Communications portal at this time. Thank you.
