Another week has gone by since our previous transmission and here I am again with you, opening the Omega Communications portal linking with you so that we stand as a strong united group, each individually seeking our own pathway, seeking information, energy, coming forward in appreciation and gratitude of what life is. So, we begin. In this message just expand your awareness where-ever you would be and allow the link to take place into your greater consciousness, therefore ready to receive on a different level.

"In this way we connect with you again at this time, Orem coming forward to you, embracing you in the light energy that we bring forth which you may recognise as entirely different to your daily activities and as such you are already achieving a heightened state of awareness and moving into a different position in relationship to what you understand the Earth condition is. In this space, as we greet you and acknowledge you in your great energy form, we also move you into the connected network and communication area in this chamber of light.

From here there are many linkages that you have explored and you realise are accessible from this space. In here you may view a changed set of circumstances and beings around you, all undertaking specific concentrated focuses which you may see represent as working instruments or changing conditions in energy systems around you and you may see into different spaces in relationship to that. Your presence here embraces the multi dimensional aspects here. You link in with it all and you participate in many such experiences that you ultimately will understand is changing you and is altering your attitude to the whole experience of the planetary system of Earth.

As you align yourself with focused intention to exist in an altered and uplifted state then this brings to you a newer understanding and you find as you move about your daily practices you will experience understanding how conditions are changing around you and can be shifted in accordance with an ease of existence. So, whatever you may be experiencing, you have the ability to create a flowing of energy that assists you to move through that experience, changing it into always appreciation and understanding of a sense of joy and also a sense of aligning every aspect of yourself to one where you embrace the assistance that comes forward to offer you the opportunity to allow the greater change to occur.

If you do not see or accept the opportunity then you will be maintained in the present state of your awareness at that time.

If you do accept the opportunity given, then you move in the presence of the beings operating in that expanded consciousness field and that serves to shift you into that space where more assistance appears to come to you to resonate with the particular needs that need to be fulfilled in you.

You are continually thus seemingly drawn forward perhaps in a straight line, and yet you are expanded through experience into a presentation where you are more suited to exist in as part of your evolution.

Many of you understand this as it relates to happenings around you, where you have been conscious of your thoughts and what you link with. In your alignment with your point of origin in the universe, you find that you are drawn forward more easily and your circumstances alter and you have ideas arise within you to put into practice to facilitate changes in whatever way does come in accordance with the vibration. So, that is you personally acting in response to your connection to the greater universal matrix.

Around you is the continuation of the presentation of many fields of upliftment. For many people you will see in the attitude of people around you that really they wish to be maintained where they are. It serves their purpose, or it serves the information they receive, reflecting back to them the exact universe that they perceive around them. So, you will understand you have moved outside the parameters of living of many people. This prepares you to always understand that the universe you are shifting into has been formed in creation and exists, waiting for you to make that continual connection.

This is the point that we bring you to in this transmission, allowing you to experience the freedom in this state, so you will feel around you has formed a change in the presentation, what you are perceiving. This is where you have come into the civilisation known as the crystalline energy systems.

In here you exist with many other people, some of whom you know, some of whom you know on a sensory level, where you communicate, sending your thought out, and you feel the loving response.

This is surrounding you now and we would wish you to take this into you, for a moment being still in this presence.

You are guided into these states. Presented to you is the foundation of Creation in these states. This is the level that you have known existed and you remember this from the experience that you have been here before and also some of you from the experience that has been shown to you in the many disclosures to you of such places. It shifts your focus into a condition of well-being.

This connects you again into that space where Earth is being realigned and you have moved through the portal to a new state of beingness. Each time we expose you to this portal, the energy comes through you and comes into the earth and this is part of your presence on Earth, being this vessel for the transformation and upliftment into that condition.

You may also feel here that you are presenting the areas of disturbance that you feel around you on Earth so that it is drawn from you in the sense that the emotional discord is drawn from you and the experience then is allowed to shift and change. So, the inflow that you are allowing to come in, transforms.

In your memory and the processes occurring now through this transmission, there is training and there is information given to you. Some of you are aware of this already, experiencing visually an amount of what we would give to you as codes and passwords. The passwords allow you to enter into different states of consciousness that are present with you and yet are not available until the particular set of energy information patterns are absorbed into your systems. Then the reality changes. You may sense this as being able to view into a different room, and you are travelling into different spaces indeed with this energy being processed.

What we have given to you here will continue to work through you. Be at peace with all that you receive.

We say this to you as we bring you back into the communication chamber itself and here you as an individual are completely received in a sphere of energy for you. This identifies you in a particular way, for it is wholly imprinted with you as an energy system and as such I now move you to connect to the area which you will feel you are moving into, before reconnecting fully to your physical unit.

This presentation to you is for your nurture.

You are loved in the sense of the universe supporting you.

Thank you dear one,

Orem out "

Lani speaking now and I thank you Orem for this information.

We now assemble as a group, so that you now feel that you are leaving this space and returning to your physical vessel.

My sense is that there has been an energy training session received by each of us in this transmission. Let this work with you. Let it free you of the concerns that you may be aware of surrounding you on this planet.

Reconnect fully now, be fully grounded and I close this transmission through the Omega Communications portal.

Thank you

Lani
